THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Our Atomic Attitude

Washington, Aug. 20.—It is interesting to learn that the Russian denunciation of the American plan for international control of atomic energy in the interests of international peace has not deeply discouraged nor, in fact, greatly disappointed, our representatives at the Atomic Energy Commission of the United Nations, which is considering this vital subject.

It is true that Mr. Gromyko acting, of course, under instructions from Moscow, has arraigned and indicted almost every feature of the American plan. He not only inveighs against the proposal that no nation be permitted a veto, once an agreement for control has been reached, at the just as vehemently objects to other provisions. In fact, if there is any part of the proposals submitted on behalf of this Government by Mr. B. M. Baruch and his associates, upon which the Russian representative looks with favor, he has not made it clear.

It is Russia's own plan submitted by Mr. Gromyko a real substitute for ours. A comparison would almost seem to indicate that the Russian proposal does not fully face the facts, that they are inadequate and that they could not work. Up to now, no one has the Russians themselves and their satellite and controlled states as found any merit in them. On the contrary, the American plan appears acceptable to almost every nation except Russia. At the moment, the Russian stand is so combative and so determined, not to say ebullient, that a deadlock has ensued which there seems no way of breaking.

This would appear a real cause for concern. But the American representatives are not deterred. On the contrary, they are quite confident that in the end their point of view will prevail. This feeling is not based on any "inside information." They have received no "private assurances," no confidential hints, however, their confidence is neither logical nor unbiased. The reasons upon which it rests seem entirely sound and convincing. They can be summed up as follows:

THE first place, it is contended by American view ultimately will prevail because it is so completely right. This is not the smug assumption of men disposed to regard it as right because it is theirs. Rather, it is the firm conviction of men who have studied and thought deeply on this matter; who presented the American plan not as a perfect plan, but sought criticism and were receptive to suggestions for alterations and improvements; who were prepared to embrace a better plan if one could be found. As time passed none such has been found.

To Appear Here

RICHARD MAXWELL

Richard Maxwell, one of the most beloved characters of radio, will be heard in person at Bristol Methodist Church, Tuesday evening, August 27th.

Maxwell, for six years, played the role of "John" on the Seth Parker broadcast over NBC. For seven years following he was heard in a program of his own, "Songs of Cheer and Comfort," over the entire Columbia Broadcasting System. For the past four years his time has been given to Army and Navy camps throughout the United States.

Maxwell's appearance here will be in the interest of Veterans Hospital Programs, an organization formed to take clean entertainment into the veterans hospitals, as well as give radios to the wounded men. This organization is governed by a national committee consisting of Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, Senior Bishop of the Methodist Church of Washington, D. C. James T. Buckley, chairman of the executive committee of the Philco Radio Corporation of Philadelphia; Harold Peat of the Harold Peat Lecture Bureau, Inc., of New York City; Chaplain Alva J. Brasted, former Chief Chaplain of the United States Army; Homer Rodeheaver, well-known religious leader, and Pat B. Withrow, Jr., national director.

The public is cordially invited to hear Mr. Maxwell in his only appearance here.

He is being sponsored locally by the Methodist Church.

BALLES FAMILY IS EVICTED FROM HOME

Attorney Files Petition For Writ of Superedeas with Superior Court

FURNITURE LOCKED UP

CHESTERFIELD, N. J., Aug. 20.—A new legal bid for liberty was made yesterday by George W. Balles, Jr., sentenced to 7½ to 15 years on morals charges involving his operation of Warminster Academy at Three Tuns. Balles' wife and parents were ordered evicted from their home here.

Through his attorney, Edward B. Duffy, Balles filed a petition for a writ of superedeas with Superior Court Judge George Rhodes at Stroudsburg, but Frederick B. Smilie, Montgomery county district attorney, immediately opposed the writ on the grounds that Balles had threatened witnesses who appeared against him.

At Chesterfield, his wife, Laura; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Balles, Sr.; Annabelle Kennedy, a former nurse at Warminster Academy, and her son, David, were evicted from a large mansion in which they had lived rent-free since Balles' conviction.

Mrs. Mary A. Bruch, owner of the property, obtained their eviction on the grounds that they had failed to carry out an agreement to purchase the mansion for $5200.

Their furniture was not taken from the building, but was stored in several rooms under lock and key. The Balles' party left by taxi cab and gave no indication of its destination.

When workmen arrived to move the furniture, Mrs. Balles called State police at the Columbus barracks and complained that she had been shown no writ of attachment. Trooper Martin Wallace was dispatched to the home and required the workers to produce the writ, but did not otherwise intervene.

After the eviction, Mrs. Bruch returned to the home from a rented room in Bordentown. Her son, Edward A. Bruch, and family occupied a part of the mansion during the Balles' stay.

At Stroudsburg, Judge Rhodes confirmed the fact that the writ of political rewards and incentives. It means "paying off" those who do your side a favor by giving them something the public has to pay for.

Translated into national terms, it means that the way to win coming elections is to have lots of public jobs and to hand them out to those who "do you the most good."

This is the reason that the Federal payroll has swelled to the point where it is nearly three times what is needed, and includes between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 surplus jobholders, with nothing useful to do in their jobs, paid for by the taxpayers.

The great predominance of these employees were handpicked by the Democratic patronage machine, and you can bet your bottom dollar they were picked because it was thought they would help the New Dealers get votes—not because it was thought they could be useful to the American public.

Resentment against this payroll padding has been rising steadily. It is fundamentally an immoral and corrupt scheme to "buy" control over the public's resources with the public's money. Furthermore, this single element of waste is one of the greatest imbalances in the national budget; and the constant search for some excuse for keeping these needless employees on the staff is a steady drive towards various collectivism schemes.

Congress has been demanding reduction of this payroll. The President has made innumerable promises, virtually none of which have been kept.

The extent to which the promises have been broken is clearly shown in a recent report of the Joint Congressional Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures.

This report covers violations of the orders of the Budget Secretary putting ceilings on the number of employees various executive departments were supposed to hire.

It needs to be borne in mind that the Budget Secretary is a direct subordinate of the President, and that such an order from the President's Budget Secretary is equivalent to a promise by the President that it is going to be carried out.

What are the figures? In the first quarter of President Truman's first fiscal year, no fewer than 30,092 employees held public jobs in executive departments in violation of the Budget Secretary's "ceiling"—in defiance, that is, of the White House's own promises.

In the second quarter, 1783 such excess of jobholders occurred, and in the third quarter 11,569.

The discrepancy in the number of violations in the three quarters does not mean that there was a sudden burst of thrift, and that payrolls were reduced. Quite the contrary.

What happened was that the Budget Secretary, apparently worried over the disregard of his (and President Truman's) order, obligingly lifted the ceilings from time to time. It was easier to change the rules than to try to have them complied with.

Who were the worst offenders? That is an interesting question. Chairman Hannegan, who as the President's right-hand man in politics, would naturally be expected to set the pace, is the tip-off of how little effort was made to live up to the economy pledges.

The Post Office, of which Hannegan is head, is the worst single offender; it carried 27,756 employees in excess of the Budget rules in the first quarter alone.

The Department of Justice, which one would expect to be a sort of Caesar's Wife when it comes to living up to the rules, has been a consistent violator. There were 897 "excess baggage" employees in the last quarter alone.

Likewise with the War Department. Despite the vast increase of present expenditures in this field compared with any previous peacetime period, the authorized increase is not enough to satisfy the Department, and in the last quarter it employed 9898 in violation of the Budget ruling.

This situation confronts the President with what logicians call a dilemma.

Either he was in earnest in his promises of economy, or he wasn't. If he didn't mean them, then they were a contemptible political fraud against the American people.

If he did mean them, and they aren't being carried out, his ability as an executive is seriously challenged. Is it going to be pretended that it is "all right" for the President to promise Congress something will be done a certain way, and then to escape censure on the grounds that his staff won't cooperate?

A President who can't run his own official family can't be expected to lead a large and uneasy nation anywhere except to disaster.

and, still open-minded, the conviction has grown that this plan is right.

A SECOND reason is because the American plan is a generous plan. We are not trying to reserve for ourselves any advantage. There is about the American plan no flavor of selfishness, nothing devious or uncanonized. We are willing and anxious to give everything in the way of bombs and information we have, once the right mechanism to insure against their use for war has been set up—and we firmly believe our idea of the mechanism is the right one.

THE third and final reason is that pending the setting up of an adequate and satisfactory mechanism we have the power—to wit, the bomb and the knowledge. And this, we will not surrender until a completely adequate setup has been formed which will guarantee to us and to all nations that atomic energy shall not be used for any hostile purpose any time, anywhere. Consideration of these three reasons does appear to justify confidence. We have, it is pointed out, been at this business of getting an agreement only nine weeks. It is overwhelmingly the most important thing in the world—and there is no sense in trying to "bull" anything through.

THERE is no need for discouragement and no reason for losing patience—yet. It is not smugness to say in this matter that America is right and generous and unselfish. It is not smugness—it is just intelligence. In the end, it is held, the Russians will see this end co-operation because it is so clearly in their interests to do so. Let us pray.

Molding Plastic Has Many Uses

A new plastic molding powder, resistant to chemical action, weathering, and with good insulating properties, has been developed by Rohm & Haas.

Known as Plexene M, the fact that it can be fabricated by injection molding makes it applicable to many uses, notably for more economical production of fountain pen barrels. Previously the molding powders capable of being injection molded were affected by chemicals in writing fluids. Manufacturers were obliged to use cast acrylic rods, despite the higher cost of manufacture.

The new material, an article in the Rohm & Haas Reporter points out, makes it suitable for use in the manufacture of a wide variety of products besides fountain pens—lighting arresters, cases for cameras and binoculars, battery cases, switch blocks, tool handles, parts of instruments of many kinds, ink wells, cases for office machines, hand sets for intercommunicating phones and cases for desk speakers, refrigerator and washing machine parts, thermostat cases, radio cabinets, dresser sets and many types of toys as well as farm equipment for poultry yards and dairies.

Plexene is described as transparent, of pale straw color. It may be dyed or pigmented in a wide range of transparent, translucent or opaque shades.

MEDIA—(INS)—Highlight of the annual pet show was a brown and white billygoat tastefully clad in pajamas.

Busy Pathway!

Every time you talk to a friend on the telephone, your message travels into the central office . . . through the switchboard there . . . and out to your friend's telephone.

Because all calls pass through that switchboard, it's a mighty busy place. These days it's busier than ever, for in order to provide service sooner to the many people waiting for telephones, we've stretched our switchboard facilities.

Sometimes we just can't handle all the calls without occasional delays. This is particularly true at the peak hours . . . late in the morning and early in the evening.

So, if the operator doesn't answer immediately when you lift the receiver, we hope you'll understand. This situation is temporary. New facilities are on order. Soon your telephone service will be better than ever. Thanks for cooperating!

By MARION CLYDE McCARROLL.

Nice-looking house. Just above, isn't it? Everybody likes this trim, cozy type of small home, with its neat white paint, green shutters and well-organized appearance.

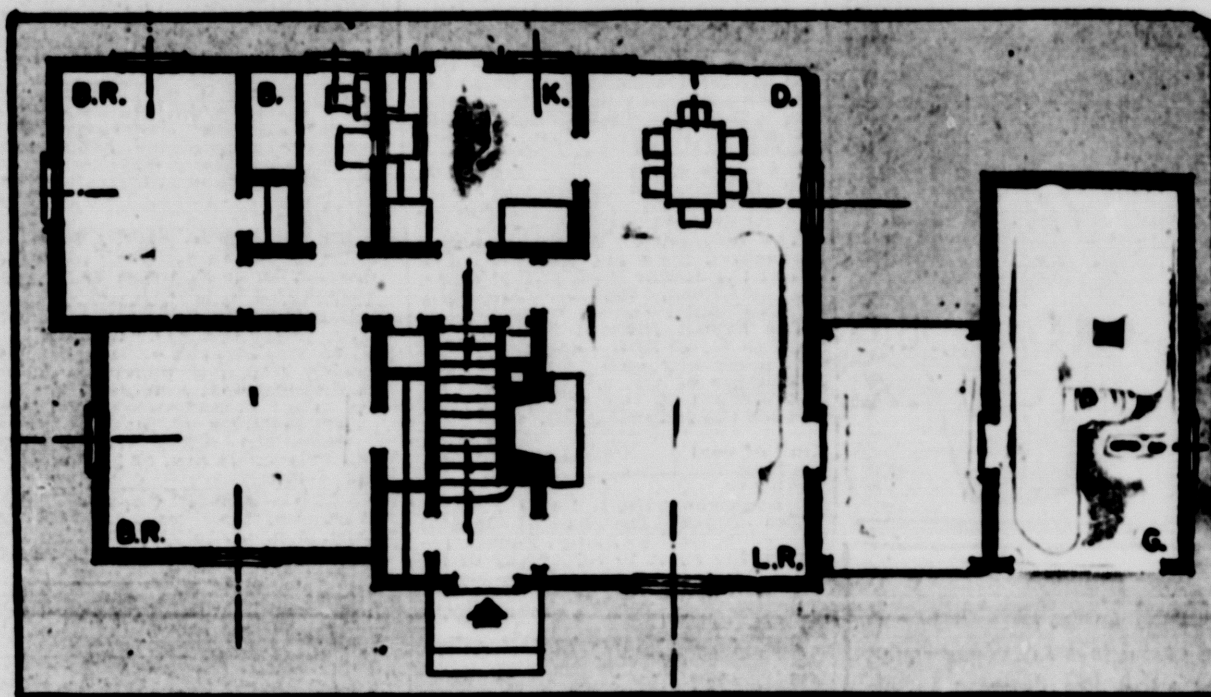

But—that's just the trouble. That last adjective, we mean. For according to the authors of "The Book of Houses," from which the picture was taken, it's really not well organized at all.

As they put it, "It just misses coming off with an excellent plan."

Here's why, as they explain the difficulty.

As you see from the floor plan, you have to go through the living room to reach all the other rooms, thus making, as these experts point out, a traffic center of what should be retained as a peaceful spot for family life. Here, continued use would destroy the atmosphere of serenity.

If you fancy a home of this general design, they suggest that it

While at first glance, this floor plan seems compact and efficient, the fact that traffic to dining room, kitchen, bedrooms and bath must all go through the living room reveals it is, in reality, poor arrangement. would be improved if the covered side entrance to be knocked front entrance might be done away porch between house and garage through square between living with, and the stairs reversed so that and dining areas; that then the they would be facing the hall.

ST. JAMES NINE LOSES TO EDDINGTON TEAM

Eddington-Newportville eliminated St. James Boys' Club from any possibility of annexing the second half title of the Lower Bucks Church Softball League when they defeated St. James, 7-6, in a see-saw battle out on the Township High School Field last night. At the same time the victory, Eddington's fifth in a row without a setback, moved the suburbanites a step closer to the crown inasmuch as Cornwells went down to defeat at the hands of the Church of Our Saviour at Presbyterian due to wet grounds. Eddington is, as a result, now a game and a half in front with only two more games to play—Calvary on Wednesday and Cornwells on Thursday.

Eddington fought an uphill battle most of the way, coming from behind to tie the score or go into the lead on three different occasions. They broke a 6-6 deadlock with the winning run in the 7th inning on a three base error and a wild throw on Kenny Heath's short fly to center. Charley Campbell, who pitched for St. James, drove in four of his team's runs with a single in the second that accounted for two, another single in the fourth and a double in the fifth. After St. James took a 2-0 lead in the second, Eddington - Newport - went ahead with 3 in the third on hits by Goodbred, Yehle, B. Stiles, and Cameron. St. James tied it up on Sutterly's double and Wright's single; added two more in the 4th to go ahead 4-2. Then St. James again went ahead, 6-5, on Carlin's single and Campbell's double; but Eddington tied it up in the 6th when Yehle singled, stole second, and continued all the way home on a wild throw. Yehle led the winners at bat with a perfect 4-for-4 night while Sutterly had 3-for-4 to pace the losers.

At Cornwells it was a pitching duel with both clubs battling on even terms all the way. Both teams counted twice in the opening stanza, and it went along at 2-2 until the final frame when with two out, Hedrick walked and scored on Bud DeLise's lazy pop fly that fell in for a triple, scoring Hedrick with the winning run in the 7th. A quartet of passes and DeLise's double accounted for the two tallies the Church of Our Saviour scored in the first frame; while Bill Lamon's single, Jack Hansen's triple, and Charlie Mudge's double in succession with two out put together Cornwells' markers in the first. Cornwells missed several scoring opportunities, notably in the third when they failed to score on three singles. Both clubs fielded well, but the Church of Our Saviour helped themselves materially with a pair of double plays. Bob Whyte pitched well for Cornwells in allowing only six hits, but his free tickets proved his downfall as every one of the superstudies had been asked, but gave no indication as to when it would be acted upon. Smilie immediately dispatched Assistant District Attorney Alexander Knight to Stroudsburg, however, to fight issuance of the writ. "We are basing our opposition to the writ on Balles' activities since he was found guilty," Smilie said. "He has called on many of the witnesses who appeared against him during the trial and has made a number of threats."

"In the case of some children who testified against him, Balles has threatened their parents with 'having the children put away' unless they change their testimony." The writ sought by Balles would grant him his freedom pending decision on an appeal from his conviction in Montgomery County Court. He is at present held in Montgomery county prison at Norristown.

Balles was convicted on eight statutory counts involving pupils of the academy on March 7. He was sentenced last Friday by Judge Harold G. Knight at Norristown and placed behind the bars.

Judge Knight refused a request of Balles' attorneys to continue $500 bail pending hearing of his appeal to Superior Court.

high school. Thus many students secure books at the library for school reading credits. Readers are permitted to take newer books out for one week free of charge; while the older ones they may hold for two weeks without any fee being required. The periods for the older books may be renewed. After those periods, fines are effective, two cents per day. The majority of the fines are chalked up during the winter months it is stated, the more inclement weather evidently being responsible for less frequent trips of some people to the library.

Library hours are four to 5:30 and seven to nine p. m., Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Woodrow W. Kern
Minister
Trevoise Methodist Church

Help us, we pray our Father, to accept life with boldness and honesty. Take away from us the fear and hesitancy to step out and accept the challenges and responsibilities that God has for us. Help us to have faith to believe that even as Christ was in the boat when tossed by the storm, so His presence is with us; and when we become alarmed, may we hear the voice of our Lord telling us to "Fear not." May we feel the presence of the living God.

Give us confidence and faith in Christ. May we know that when we have done our best, when we have sown the seed which God has given us, then we must have faith and trust the living God for the harvest. Give us calmness of soul, serenity of mind, and peace of heart. Amen.

BRISTOL TOWNSHIP
NINE NOSES OUT
3RD WARD EAGLES

Third Ward Loses By Narrow Margin of
One Run

SCORE ENDS 8 TO 7

Jones Was Wild and the Fielding Was Very Poor

In a close and exciting game on Leedom's field last evening, the Bristol Township nine nosed out the Third Ward Eagles, 8-7, and by virtue of its win the Township team entered the final playoffs of the Bristol Youth League.

Poor fielding and wildness on the part of "Lenny" Jones accounted for the Eagles' loss. The Warders committed seven errors while Jones was on the hill and on top of this he walked six batters. In the last three innings, "Bill" McGerr went in to pitch for the Third Ward and did not allow a hit and only one player reached first, that on an error. McGerr fanned six.

The winners made but four hits off Jones while the Third Ward team had five safe blows off "Inky" Schneider. Four of the five blows came in the second inning when the Warders scored six runs, all earned. However, after this frame, Schneider settled down and only
Ennis could nick him for a hit.

The Township team won the game by the wonderful throwing of its catcher, "Billy" MacSherry. The Edgely boy was credited with four assists and three times nailed runners trying for second.

The Morrellmen got going in the first inning and scored twice. Eisenbrey reached first on an error by Ennis. F. Hibbs walked. Schneider scored Eisenbrey with a hit. Elker fanned and Morrell grounded out.
Hibbs scored. Killian and Mac-Sherry walked to fill the bags but McGerr made a fine stop and throw to retire W. Hibbs on a roller.

Ennis made himself a committee of one to get the run back in the third half of the inning. He got two bases when Morrell booted his roller and W. Hibbs let the ball get away from him. Stone sacrificed the runner to third and he scored when MacSherry threw to left field trying to catch him off third.

The Township boys continued to take advantage of mis-plays and added three more in the second.
Moll got a break on an error by Mc-Gerr. Eisenbrey reached base on an error by Collier and when the latter also threw wild to third, Moll scored. F. Hibbs fled out. Schneider walked, and stole second. Morrell also walked, filling the bases.
Killian pumped a timely single to McGerr. Eisenbrey and Schneider scored. MacSherry was the third out.

Saxton started the Third Ward second with a triple over the center fielder's head. Collier was walked and went to second unmolested.
Gallagher struck out and Loughran walked, filling the bags. Jones hit safely to center, scoring Saxton and Collier. Ennis struck out and Stone walked to again fill the bases. Massi singled to right, scoring Loughran and Jones. McGerr also hit safely and Stone and Massi crossed but McGerr died at second, MacSherry to F. Hibbs.

Three runs in the fourth clinched the tilt for the Bristol Township team. F. Hibbs started it with a walk. Schneider hit to McGerr who got F. Hibbs at second. Collier's throw to first had Schneider but Stone dropped the ball. Elker singled to right after Schneider stole second and the runner scored.
Morrell's single scored Elker with the tying run. Loughran's throw to second had Morrell but McGerr dropped the ball. Morrell stole third and scored the winning run after Saxton caught Killian's fly.

CASTONGUAY TO RACE IN MOTOR-CYCLE EVENTS

He Won the First 100-Mile
Championship Race
Staged at Course

FILES HIS ENTRY

Qualifying Trials Are to be Held Saturday,
August 31

The winner of the first 100-mile national championship motorcycle race ever staged at Langhorne Speedway will again be a contender when the event is revived there on Sunday, September 1, after a wartime absence of four years.

He is Woodie Castonguay, of Bridgeport, Conn. Castonguay won the event when it was first held there in 1935. The race has since been an annual feature until war restrictions shelved it.

Castonguay was one of the first to file an entry for the revival of the race. He will ride an Indian.
Other early entries riding the same mounts include Andy Drobeck, of Reading, Pa.; Willard Wolf, of Northampton, Pa., and Ted Edwards, of Atlanta, Ga.

Qualifying trials for the 100-mile national championship will be staged on Saturday, August 31st, starting at one o'clock (EDT). The program of the title event and three consolation races will start the following day at 2:30.

The fastest 35 riders in the qualifying trials at a mile will be eligible for the 100-mile race. The next 25 fastest will go into a 15-mile event, the next 25 into a 10-mile event and the next 25 in a 5-mile race.

In the event sufficient entries qualify, and the present pace of filing indicates that will be the case.

POSTPONED BOUTS TO BE STAGED TONIGHT

The professional boxing bouts scheduled for last night will be held tonight in the St. Ann's A. A. outdoor arena, Wood and Franklin streets. First bout will go on promptly at 8.45 o'clock.

Promoter "Sammy" Maffo called off last night's scheduled bouts because of threatening weather. The rules of the commissioner's office are that when bouts are called off because of the weather, the commissioner must be notified shortly after 12 o'clock so that the officials may be notified.

As far as is known, only two changes will be made in the card.
The bout between Harry Varrava, Roehling, and Joe Rocco, Philadelphia, has been called off and Matchmaker Maffo will secure another bout for this today.

Nick Harris, of Philadelphia, who was matched with "Jimmie" Sulla, also of Philadelphia, is unable to fight and so Maffo has signed John Falany, of Chicago, to meet Sulla.
The remainder of the card will be intact. Gene "Rudy" Roberts, of Newark, is prepared for his eight-round session with the "Speedy" Duvall, of Philadelphia. This should be a good bout because of the speed both boys have in the swinging of the gloves.

"Bill" McCollick, of Bristol, will make his professional debut against Tony Del Rossi, of Philadelphia.
McCollick, before he entered the Marines, was one of the best amateurs in his class and is anxious to get going as a pro.

In the other bout, "Billy" Hagen, of Mayfair, will attempt to repeat his performance against Melvin Williams, of Trenton. Two weeks ago, Hagen won a disputed decision against Williams and now the Jersey boy is seeking revenge.

Reserve seats are on sale at the Diamond Sporting Goods store and the St. Ann's club. General admission tickets will be on sale at the ticket office at seven o'clock.

ST. ANN'S CLASHES
WITH EDGELY A. C.
IN CRUCIAL GAME

Winner of the Contest Will Then Meet Hibernians
In Playoff

MAPLE BEACH GAME

Linck and Whyno Will Do
The Mound Work for Opposing Nines

With their series even at one-each, the St. Ann's and the Edgely teams will clash this evening on the Maple Beach diamond in the crucial game of the series. The winners of tonight's fracas will meet the Hibernians in a five-game series for the Bristol Suburban League crown. Game tonight will begin at six o'clock sharp.

Manager "Eddie" DeKoyser has announced that Ralph Linck will again do the mound work for the Edgelyites, while "Charlie" Whyno, the league's star pitcher, will hurl for "Spike" Scordia's team.

Linck hurled the township team to a 3-1 win over the "Saints" on last Thursday night, while in the opening game of the series, "Charlie" Whyno was a 11-0 victor over the Edgely team. "Johnny" Dick was the losing moundsman in the first game while "Danny" Keegan was the St. Ann's losing hurler in the second game.

"Frankie" Purcell will do the catching for Edgely, while Barney Ludwig will handle Whyno's slants.
Purcell's catching in the second game was the highlight of the series thus far.

The remainder of the Edgely lineup will see "Johnny" Dick at second; "Mike" Palowez, first; Al Bos-ter, short; and Gordon Fahey, third. The outfield will be composed of Ed Hunter, "El" Smith, and
"Tommy" Purcell.

Fred Barbeta will be at first for St. Ann's with his brother, Bert, at second. Tony Palumbo will play short, and Lou Mari, third. The outfield will be composed of: Lou Sas-si, Joe Clacella, and Joe Pica. The latter will be inserted into the lineup because of his hitting power.

The Maple Beach diamond, under the care of groundskeeper John Fields, has been smoothed out so that it is the best ball field in this section. Fans were amazed at the improvement made in the diamond and most of them are claiming that it is the best conditioned field that this section has ever had.
